The Election—No Opposition to the Proposed Amendments to the Constitution—State Party—Democratic Voting Proxies.

Correspondence of the New-York Daily Times:

LAWRENCE, Kansas, Monday, Oct. 1, 1856.

Yesterday was the day appointed to vote upon the proposed amendments to the Constitution of Kansas, and to elect a delegate to Congress and for Representatives to the second Legislature. The election has passed off quietly, and the result is a foregone conclusion. The Free-State party have not made any opposition to the amendments, and the Democratic party have not voted. Under these circumstances, the vote will be very small, and the amendments will be adopted by a large majority.

The Democratic party have not voted, because they have no confidence in the fairness of the election, and because they have no candidate for Congress. They have not voted against the amendments, because they are in favor of them, and because they have no other way of expressing their approval of them. The Free-State party have not voted, because they have no confidence in the fairness of the election, and because they have no candidate for Congress. They have not voted against the amendments, because they are in favor of them, and because they have no other way of expressing their approval of them

NEW-JERSEY

REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATION.—Last evening the republicans of Jersey City held a season of rejoicing over the glorious victory achieved by the party in this State. The streets were filled with people, and a display of fireworks took place. The bonfires were extensive, and the whole affair was conducted in the most orderly manner. Addresses were made by Messrs. Gen. CLARK was not present.

The Fire Bricks, Cap. H. B. Dayton, paraded the streets of Jersey City last evening, and gave a supper to a large force of the Department, and guests. Those who were present say that the occasion was a very pleasant one.

The Hook and Ladder Company of Jersey City held a meeting last evening, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Foreman—Jacob Ogden.
1st Assistant—Jacob Ogden.
2d Assistant—Jacob Ogden.
Treasurer—Jacob Ogden.
Secretary—Jacob Ogden.

The Americus Hose Company of Jersey City held a meeting last evening, and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:

Foreman—Jacob Ogden.
1st Assistant—Jacob Ogden.
2d Assistant—Jacob Ogden.
Treasurer—Jacob Ogden.
Secretary—Jacob Ogden.

The Hook and Ladder

The Conservative Revolution.

This is the title now openly given by Fillmore leaders to their league with the Buchanan party. The Express called the supposed success in Connecticut a "conservative" triumph. The tens of thousands of "Americans" who openly supported, but secretly stabbed the Union ticket in Eastern Pennsylvania, now call the Buchanan success a result of "conservative" feeling. There can be no fault found with this coalition if the two parties only avow that their principles are identical; for the Republican Party is professedly formed by a fusion of partisans, who, however differing in the past, now cordially unite in opposing Slavery Extension. The danger of the coalition in question is that tens of thousands of "Americans," who cordially approve of the Republican platform, but delusively think that the success of Mr. FILLMORE is a Free-Soil triumph, may, by conscientiously persisting in a separate ticket, find themselves betrayed on election day, by doughface associates. We have heard these latter incautiously say, in Connecticut, "we will poll three thousand votes for Mr. FILLMORE, and that gives the State to Mr. BUCHANAN." A large proportion of these voters would cast a ballot for Mr. FREMONT if they knew that the leaders of the Fillmore division throughout the Union were desiring and working for the success of Slavery. It is very evident that whilst Free-Soil Fillmore men in Pennsylvania cordially supported the Union ticket, their leaders, with the tens of thousands of intriguers at their heels, have secretly voted for the Buchanan ticket. The consideration for a Fillmore division in Connecticut and New-Hampshire, and for direct aid to the Slavery forces in Pennsylvania, is support to the Fillmore ticket and ERASTUS BROOKS in New-York State, from the Buchanan men. It would be dangerous to openly announce this, but at least fifty thousand of the "faithful" throughout the Empire State can be made aware of the dodge without alarming the "adopted" citizens in other States.

We have reason to believe that this bargain, so far as this State is concerned, was concerted on Sunday, the 14th day of September, at Saratoga Springs, when Messrs. ERASTUS BROOKS, PETER CAGGER, of the Buchanan State Committee, JOHN VANDERBILT, the candidate for Lieut.-Governor, and Ex-Senator COOLEY, met at the United States Hotel. Some of the few strangers who lingered at the close of the watering-place season very well remember the winks and mysterious associations of that day between these parties. The next day ERASTUS left for Vermont and arranged an electoral ticket. Shortly afterward came the meeting of Fillmore and Buchanan merchants at the New-York Hotel, under the leadership of Senator SLIDELL, who, in 1844, arranged the Plaquemine frauds in Louisiana—the avowed object of the meeting being to raise money for the October election in Pennsylvania. Then came Ex-Gov. FLOYD's mysterious indorsement of FILLMORE in Wall-street. Almost simultaneously with the Ex-Governor's harangue we hear of JAMES BROOKS in Massachusetts, and ERASTUS in New-Hampshire, arranging electoral tickets for Mr. FILLMORE. Then comes the combination of actual votes in Connecticut and Eastern Pennsylvania.

In criminal jurisprudence certain crimes can only be ferreted out by circumstantial testimony, or by conscience-stricken felons turning State's evidence. There is little hope that the latter alternative will exist in this Buck-Fillmore conspiracy, for the lack of conscience in the case; but the honest Free-Soilers who have not as yet accepted the Republican flag as their truest standard, will do well to study circumstantial evidence in regard to the "conservative coalition."

There are two classes whose hearts are with FREMONT and Freedom, who yet may awake to this danger—one class is deluded, the other is affrighted by appeals of disunion. If the Slidells and Floyds and Brookses so love the Union that they are willing to combine FILLMORE and BUCHANAN according to circumstances, depend upon it they love spoils better than the Union. If these things be pondered on for the twenty days to come, before the final issue is decided, Freedom will yet be a unanimous profession. Bribery and cheating are hard to contend against, but NAPOLEON was not vanquished, nor the morale of his primary success at Waterloo overthrown, until the spirit-stirring cry of "up guards and at them" came to the tried soldiers, who, until the last moment, took no part in the onset.

THE CONVENTION OF SLAVEHOLDING GOVERNORS.—It appears that the Convention of Slaveholding Governors in Raleigh, which we alluded to a few days since as shortly to take place, has actually come off, and plans have probably been considered for dissevering the Union. Governor WISE was among them. But these governors are not likely to be sustained by the people who elected them for very different purposes than that of dissevering the bonds which bind the States together. The Richmond Whig in alluding to this gubernatorial convention, says:

"What right have these political adventurers to assemble in their official capacity to determine upon the course the South should pursue in the event of FREMONT's election? What power do they possess in the premises? Our crazy neighbor, we have not a doubt, is at the bottom of this whole affair. And what little constable in Virginia has not more real power than he! And then, too, notwithstanding Democratic horror of secrecy, this Convention of Southern Governors has been gotten up in the most clandestine manner. For what purpose? Who knows? Does a solitary citizen of Virginia or the South know what these madmen are after? Will they publish the whole or any part of the proceedings of this conference? We predict not."

The Baltimore American of the 16th inst. is decidedly down upon this Southern Hartford Convention, and asks:

"Are these self-constituted representatives of Southern Democracy putting their wise heads together to hatch treason? Are they about to enact the solemn farce of attempting to make people believe that the party they would fain represent is the Southern public, and that if they cannot have things their own way, something very terrible is to be done? We seem hear it rumored that our own Governor had a share in this matter. We trust he will think twice before he commits the Union State of Maryland to any of his partisan vagaries."

We trust that there may be some lusty vessel among these treason-plotting Governors, that the country may know what they propose to do in the event of FREMONT's election, which is now more probable than ever.

ANOTHER PRESENT FOR THE CHEVALIER BROOKS.—Some people in Charleston have sent Bully BROOKS a pair of pistols as a token of their affection, and to mark their appreciation of his manly and dastardly attack upon Senator SUMNER. The chevalier, in his letter of acknowledgment, says that he hopes that God will enable him to use them with honor. The possibility of Preston using his pistols with honor is too ridiculous to be thought of. As the pistols were made by a Southern manufacturer of Southern materials, and expressly for Southern use, the recipient of them will doubtless have too much regard for his own personal safety to venture to fire them off.

DISUNIONISM.—We observe that in Charleston, South Carolina,—the head-quarters of most of the Disunionism of the day,—an American candidate for Congress has been elected over the regular Democrat. This is a significant symptom. The American Party in the Southern States has never shown any disposition to indorse the threats of disunion which have been so clamorously echoed and re-echoed by the Buchanan men. On the contrary, they have uniformly repudiated every imputation of the kind. JOHN M. BOTTS has even gone so far as to say, that if he were satisfied that Mr. FILLMORE did really make the remarks on this subject attributed to him at Albany, he would not support him. JOHN BELL, of Tennessee, JOHN J. CRITTENDEN, of Kentucky, and all the leading men in the American ranks in the Slaveholding States, have denied all responsibility for, and all sympathy with, these Disunion threats.

The elections, as well as other indications of public sentiment, show that the Union Party at the South is strong even where it is not in the ascendant. There is not a solitary Southern State in which any attempt to secede from the Union, or to resist its authority, would not be met by stern resistance at home. This bugbear is losing all its terrors, even with the most timid of our Northern politicians.

THE SLANDERERS' RETREAT.—We copied a day or two since a card from Col. J. D. STEVENSON, published in the California papers, denying certain statements imputed to him, injurious to the character of Col. FREMONT,—especially in regard to his purchases of cattle, &c. We are glad to find this so, since this charge has been chiefly sustained by the authority of this gentleman and of Col. MASON, (Col. FREMONT's most bitter enemy while living,) who, in 1848, sent on from California, in their official capacity, these charges against him. It was Col. STEVENSON who hunted up the testimony on which the attempt to injure the Colonel's reputation as an honest man was founded. It was sent to Washington by Col. MASON for the express purpose of blasting his character there, and defeating his appointment as Commissioner to settle the Government claims in California. A Democratic Congress refused to entertain the charges, which had been brought forward in pamphlet form in California and in Washington. On this subject Col. STEVENSON says:

"Lest my silence should be construed into an indorsement of (the author's) abuse and slander of Col. FREMONT, I deem it proper to say that, so far as my personal knowledge of Col. FREMONT and his course in California is concerned, I believe that the scurrilous statements in the pamphlet in question have no other foundation than the diseased imagination of the author."

They had their foundation in the personal hostility of Col. MASON and Col. STEVENSON himself to Col. FREMONT. We are glad to see that STEVENSON is ashamed of his part in their circulation and is disposed to make what atonement may be in his power.

McMASTERS has already beaten a retreat from his slanders. We shall have to provide an asylum for the disabled libelers of the Colonel by-and-by.

OUT OF A PLACE.—The Albany Argus and Atlas publishes the following special dispatch, received from Col. FORNEY, Mr. BUCHANAN's right-hand man:

DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE ROOMS, PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, Oct. 15.

EDITORS ATLAS AND ARGUS: The State has gone Democratic, certain, by nearly ten thousand, at least sixteen Democrats elected to Congress—a gain of ten. We have the Legislature by a large majority. Pennsylvania greets her sister States North and South with shouts of joy for the Union and the Constitution.

J. W. FORNEY.

Mr. FORNEY was slightly out of his reckoning. The boot is on the other leg. His services in the kitchen will not be required.

UNDER WHICH KING?—The virulent loquacity of our Fillmore Evening cotemporary, on the result of the Pennsylvania election, is something marvelous. She fires up in the most amusing manner, and vents her ire at the Republicans for having the assurance to value themselves on the defeat of BUCHANAN, with a degree of rancor that is frightful in so venerable a personage. The joke of the matter is that our cotemporary, who is the sole organ of the straight Old-line Whigs, takes all the credit of the supposed defeat of the Buchaniers for its own small party, while it is notorious that that the Old-line Whigs in Pennsylvania have voted for BUCHANAN.

MORE CHIVALRY.—The Richmond, Va., Whig is vigorously engaged in defamation of Col. FREMONT's mother. It has been exploring the archives of Virginia, and is publishing extracts from her petition for divorce. This is probably all right, according to the code of Virginia chivalry. In this region of the country, however, any grown man who would resort to attacks upon the character of the mother of a candidate for office, would be considered fit only for the place of night scavenger in the streets of the city.

HOW TO REMOVE POLITICAL STAINS.—The Buchanan Democracy in Missouri, it seems, are talking of sending that redoubtable Border Ruffian, General B. F. STRINGFELLOW, to represent their State in the United States Senate, to remove what the Weston Argus calls, "the stain from the political escutcheon of the State of FRANK BLAIR's election to Congress from the St. Louis District." It would be just as effective as the application of blacking to remove the stain of whiteness from linen.

A MODERN BAALAM.—The Albany Atlas and Argus, in a strain of piety quite unusual, declares that "the hand of God is visible" in the Pennsylvania election. It expressed this opinion when it supposed Pennsylvania had cast its vote for BUCHANAN, the extension of Slavery and the Ostend Manifesto. It has probably changed its mind by this time. It is not the first time that a prophet has blessed the enemies of those who employed him to curse them.

THE REPUBLICAN RALLY IN POUGHKEEPSIE.—There was an immense gathering in Poughkeepsie, yesterday, of the Republicans of the River Counties, and of the farmers of the neighborhood, amounting to nearly 10,000 persons. Speeches were made by Senator WILLIAMS, of Connecticut, Governor KING, of Rhode Island, Governor SEWARD, and others. A full report will be found in our columns this morning.

THE EDITOR OF THE LONDON TIMES.—The mysterious personage, of whom everybody has heard, but of whom so little is known, Editor of the London Times, is now in this country. He arrived in the Niagara, at Boston, on Saturday last, and has gone into Canada, but intends coming to New-York in time to witness the great struggle for the Presidency, in November. The name of this great potentate in the newspaper world is DELANE; and, like many great potentates in the history of nations, he has inherited his honors. The father of Mr. DELANE was many years a sub-editor of the Times, and afterwards editor-in-chief of the Morning Chronicle. The younger DELANE was educated at Cambridge, and served under his father, while the latter was on the Times, and the father and son were editors of the rival papers at the same time. There are now in this country the editor-in-chief and two of the prominent writers of the "leading journal," Mr. LOWE and Mr. FILLMORE. The result will doubtless be a much more accurate and temperate view of American affairs in that paper hereafter than has characterized its leaders in times past.

A NEW LEAF IN ENGLISH LITERATURE.—The London Press says that all the readable articles in Household Words are written by a young fellow named SALA. This young literary Bohemian, as we have heard from other sources, is a most remarkable instance of a literary mimic, and his fecundity is not less marvelous than his imitative talents. He writes so much in the style of either DICKENS or THACKERAY that it would take a sharp critic to distinguish the false from the real author; and, what is more marvelous still, is his faculty of imitating popular actors. People have wondered at the fertility of invention and industry of DICKENS, in writing so many of the articles in the Household Words, while he was at the same time engaged in writing his Bleak House and Little Dorrit. But the secret of his wonderful fertility is explained by the announcement of the fact that he has an admirable Crichton in his pay, who acts as his double. This literary journeyman is the son of Madame SALA, a theatrical performer.

The Candidate for Congress in the Seventh District.

To the Editor of the New-York Daily Times:

SIXTH STREET, Thursday, Oct. 16.

I notice, in your paper of this date, a paragraph expressive of regret that the Republicans of this Congressional District had not renominated Hon. BAYARD CLARKE. The Republicans of Putnam, Rockland and Westchester equally regret that the gentleman named could not consent to be a candidate, and had he not peremptorily declined previous to the assembling of the Convention, be assured, he would have been nominated by acclamation, without the formality of a ballot.

Mr. CLARKE having withdrawn, the Convention, on the fourth ballot, nominated JOSEPH STRANG, of Putnam County. In that choice I heartily concur, as you would were you acquainted with the nominee.

Mr. STRANG has heretofore acted with the Democratic Party, breaking away from the Hunkers in 1848, following those who then professed to be opposed to Slavery. When the Barnburners sold out to the South, Mr. STRANG refused to be delivered over to the new owners, and since then he has been a warm and devoted advocate of Free Soil and Free Speech and FREMONT.

I have no doubt of his election, and I know that he will always be found true to the country.

LEO.

Personal.

The Limerick papers announce the death of the Dowager Lady O'BRIEN, mother of the present Lord INCHIQUIN and Mr. W. SMITH O'BRIEN. By this event the latter gentleman obtains an increase to his income from the family property of about $15,000 per annum, the deceased lady having enjoyed a life-interest to that amount in an estate strictly settled on Mr. SMITH O'BRIEN, and his heirs, after her demise.

The London press, under the caption of "Literary Union," notices the marriage of Mr. JOHN FORSTER, late editor of the Examiner, with Mrs. COLBURN, widow of the late eminent publisher, by the Rev. WHEWELL ELWIN, editor of the Quarterly Review.

One of the Limerick papers states that, whether his consent be given or withdrawn, no event is more probable than the election of Mr. SMITH O'BRIEN by two, if not three, of the great constituencies of the Province of Munster, when the next dissolution of Parliament occurs.

We are told by the Court Journal that the Marquis of DALHOUSIE is recovering from his bad health, and that he will, no doubt, be able to appear in the House of Lords when Parliament meets "as the exponent and defender of his own policy." This looks as if the Ex-Queen of Oude's visit to England was beginning to tell upon the consciences of the guilty.

Amusements.

BURTON'S THEATRE.—Mr. E. L. DAVENPORT, an artist who has been the great attraction of this theatre since its opening, took his benefit last night. An enormous attendance complimented in an agreeable way the talent of the gentleman, and cheered him in the arduous role of Hamlet. For Shakesperian revivals, Mr. BURTON has some reputation. Whether the present one (of Hamlet,) is equal to former efforts, we are unable to say, having been unable to penetrate beyond the threshold of the building. We only know that an admirable actor was properly greeted by a vast concourse of friends and admirers.

Concerts.

THALBERG has very wisely postponed his Concerts until after election. Madame AUGEZ is expected on the Fulton, and will in all probability join Mr. THALBERG.

PARODI, STRAKOSH, THALBERG, and a very strong Concert company, will give a fine entertainment on Wednesday evening next at NIBLO's. Such artists are always welcome.

NEW AMERICAN OCCIDENT.—Mr. F. B. GOODRICH, known as "Dick Tinto," and Mr. F. L. WARREN, have just completed a five-act drama, entitled "Fascination." It has not yet fascinated any of the managers.—Boston Post.

Our information differs from that of the Post. We understand that "Fascination" has been offered to but one manager, Mr. BURTON, and that it has been accepted by him. It will be produced early in December.

MR. HENRY SQUIRES.

We have seen a letter from this favorite American Tenor, who has been pursuing his studies most assiduously in Naples for the last four years, and, who has appeared with great success in several of VERDI's operas, "Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Ernani," "La Traviata," &c. We translate the following from one of the journals of Naples, La Rondinella, of Aug. 28, at a concert given at Sorrento by the great flutist of Naples, CARLO CASAVOLIO. * * * "The clear, liquid voice of Sig. SQUIRES, with his pure accent, ravished all. The B flat in the cadenza of his first song was so well given that it enchanted everybody. In the duet from 'Rigoletto' sung by SQUIRES and GIUSEPPA TAVIES, the sympathetic Tenor displayed all the beauties of his lovely voice. But the crowning effort of all was in the divine 'Romanza' from 'La Favorita,' which was repeatedly interrupted by the applause from the other artists, who could not restrain themselves owing to the pathos of feeling which the singer threw into it. All present were completely astonished, and confessed to have never before heard the 'Romanza' sung so well as by SQUIRES. In the 'Tarella,' from 'Lombardi,' he showed a great deal of intelligence and dramatic patronage." * * *

Mr. SQUIRES is engaged in London, and may be expected in New-York this Winter.

THE FAIRS.

Were made known, many small bits of amateur wit were thrown out, which the happy exhibitor seized and at once made a subject to the cares of corporeal care and in a moment "might have been seen" adorning his precious property to the finest rolling flesh of. There were many happy countenances, and a few glum ones; a rustling of satin ornaments, a display of animals which everybody and the judges agreed did very properly to walk out upon the race-track for an airing, and at 4 o'clock a general breaking up and scattering. Two magnificent horses took the highest premiums in their respective classes. One was an Orange County Stallion—Tom Orth—a thorough-bred; and in the class next him was Young Andrew Jackson, for which $2,500 have been offered and refused. The Bard of Werdet, the short-horn Bull, for whom we felt called to say a kind word in our article of yesterday, carried away the first prize, and would not have very well helped doing so, had he been inclined. There were no Milch Cows on the ground, that were deemed worthy of first premiums. We mentioned yesterday the presence of a scion of the feathered tribes, exhibited by HENRY JESSUP of Paterson; to this pet eight premiums were awarded including the first prize for best and greatest variety.

The principal prizes awarded by the judges are as follows:

HORSES.—Best thorough-bred Stallion, TOM ORTH, JOHN APPLETON, Orange Co., N. Y.... Best Stallion for all work, Young Andrew Jackson, A. and J. CASTNER, New-York.... Best pair matched Horses, W. A. LAWRENCE, Flushing.

NATIVE STOCK.—Best 2-year-old Heifer, ISAAC LOCKEY, Westchester, N. Y.

GRADE STOCK.—Best 2-year-old Bull, Major H. C. BARNEY, West Farms.... Best yearling Bull, EDGAR STRAGES, Smithtown, L. I.... Best Bull calf, THOMAS G. ATWICK, Passaic, N. J.... Best cow, HUGH LOCKEY, Westchester, N. Y.

SHORT HORNS.—Best 2-year-old Bull, Duke of Cambridge, THOMAS RICHARDSON, West Farms.... Best 2-year-old Bull, Earl of Warwick, S. T. TABER, Dutchess County.... Best yearling Bull, Highflyer, TABER & HALSEY, Dover Plains.... Best Bull calf, Sir, HUNTER, Westchester County.... Best 2-year-old Heifer, Lucretia, S. T. TABER, Dutchess County.

DEVONS.—Best 2-year-old Bull, S. & L. HUNTER, Winchester, Ct.... Best 2-year-old Bull, THOMAS EDWARD G. FAILE, Westchester County.... Best yearling Bull, J. N. BLAKESLEE, Watertown, Ct.... Best 2-year-old Heifer, same.... Best herd, same.

AYRSHIRES.—Best Bull over 2 years, G. W. COFFIN Dutchess County.... Best Cow, A. M. TREADWELL, Madison, N. J.

MIXED CATTLE.—None deserving the first premium.

WORKING OXEN.—Best pair, S. & L. HUNTER, Winchester, Conn.

FAT OXEN.—Best pair, E. GLADDY, Dutchess County.

MIXED SWINE.—Best Buck, WM. CRANSTOUN, East Hooks, N. Y.... Best pair Ewes, same.

SWINE.—Best 2-year-old Boar, THOMAS RICHARDSON, West Farms.... Best Sow, 2 years old, WM. LANE.... Best lot Pigs, SEARING, Union.

POULTRY.—Best and greatest variety, HENRY JOHNSON, Patterson, N. J.... Best pair Bremen Geese, same.... Best Silver Polands, same.... Best Dalton Grays, same.... Best Shanghais, same.... Best Silver-laced Bantams, same.... Best Golden Hamburgs, same.... Best Silver Hamburgs, same (eight specimens).... Best pair Muscovy Ducks, WM. LANE, New-York.... Best lot Black Spanish, ROBT. W. PEARSALL, West Farms.... Best Golden Polands, same.... Best White Aztecs, same.... Best Golddace Bantams, JAMES ADAM, Elizabeth, N. J.

The children of the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum visited the grounds in the afternoon. They numbered two hundred, and gave evidence of much childish delight at the things they saw and what they were permitted to hear.

The last scene of the day was the air with which an exquisite of the first water inquired of a stout Jersey farmer, who was busily rubbing down and polishing an immense Devon bull, "whether that animal wouldn't make good beef?" "Guess not," said the farmer, with a twinkle in his eye, and then he went away round the other side of the shed, where he was shaking his sides at last accounts.

The Plowing and Spading Matches are postponed until a week from to-day. The ground selected is at Harlem, particulars to be announced by advertisement. There was so much business to be performed yesterday that it was found to be impracticable to plow and spade and reward the people all in the same day, and so this part of the programme goes over.

The feature of to-day is a horse-race, with the lists upon the entrance of female competitors.

This year's exhibition, notwithstanding certain splenetic reflections upon it, ranks among the best that the American Institute has furnished. In neat cattle and horses it has been remarkably fine, though quite deficient in the way of pork and mutton. The display of poultry was never more attractive, nor has a Show been conducted with more order or with less cause for grumbling or dissatisfaction.

The Horticultural Society's Show.

The room appropriated to the Mendelssohn Union, in Clinton Hall, was last evening given over to the use of the Horticultural Society; so, while the music went on across the hall, the flowers came on show in very handsome style in a pleasant room, and a sociable set of people met together and gossiped over the tables. We hear that it is in contemplation to make more frequent these flowery demonstrations,—say fortnightly, or weekly, if the horticulturists can be waked up to the proper degree of enthusiasm. The features of the exhibition of yesterday were the Ferns, (Dr. OSGOOD's "little old fogies,") the Dahlias, and a plant quite a stranger among the flowers, very like the oak in leaf, but destitute of any remarkable attractions, or that it owed the attraction it received to the fact that it was a strange visitor, and was accordingly to be treated with marked respect. The premiums were awarded at the close of the evening,—Dr. J. KNIGHT taking the first prize for a choice collection of Ferns, A. RICHARDSON the prize for pearl, WM. DAVIDSON for Chrysanthemums, THOMAS HOGG for Orchids in bloom, M. DONADI for Roses, JOHN CRANSTOUN for Bouquets. A new feature is being introduced in the bouquet arrangement. Instead of squeezing the unhappy flowers so as to effect a total destruction of identity, the floral folks begin to think it the proper thing to leave each distinct, and so give it room. This improvement was noticeable yesterday. The vegetables were neither abundant nor extraordinary,—the flowers remaining the chief attraction until the close of the exhibition.

...compensation for services.

96. The claimant, G. and another, L., in 1817, were overseers on the Cumberland road. During the progress of the work, the Superintendent determined to alter the plan for making the road, and directed the Contractors, L. and G. to conform to his new plan, thereby increasing the expenses of the work performed by them, assuring them that the United States would pay for the same. L. and G. complied with the direction of the head of the Department of the Superintendent. The special act for the relief of L. and G. (2 Stat. at Large, 711,) authorized the Secretary of the Treasury "to settle upon principles of equity the accounts of" L. and G., &c. The balance allowed and paid them under said Act amounted to $21 [illegible]. The petitioner claims from the United States interest on that sum from the time when the work was done in 1817 to the present. Held: The Court has no jurisdiction of the case, and the claimants are not legally entitled to recover.—Per Blatchford, J.—[illegible] et al. vs. The United States.—Second Opinion.

97. Held: also, the circumstance that by the special act of 1842 the Secretary was to settle the account upon the principles of equity, did not necessarily require that interest should be charged upon the sum found due L. and G.—Ib.

98. In 1836, a Special Term of the Circuit Court of the United States was held at Prairie du Chien, in Michigan, for the trial of Indians charged with the murder of some white men. A Mr. S. of Missouri was retained by the War Department to appear for the Government on the trial. The services of an interpreter on the trial were necessary. Mr. S. procured the interpreter from Missouri, to act as interpreter. He performed the duty satisfactorily. Without a public interpreter, the cases could not have been tried. Held: the claimant has a legal cause of action against the United States to recover for his services as interpreter. Mr. S., in employing him, did not exceed his authority. If he had not done so, he could not have trusted the case reposed in him as counsel.—Per Blatchford, J.—[illegible] vs. The United States.

99. Where a contract for services is entered into by an officer of the United States, duly authorized to make it, whether such agent lawfully does within the scope of his authority, it does by the United States.—Per Blatchford, J.—Green vs. The United States.

100. In a claim for work done for, or services rendered, the United States, the law, it seems, from the circumstance of (1) an expressed consideration—the work done by the claimant, and (2) a request by the United States for the consideration previous to its being done, will imply a promise by the United States to pay such claimant for the work whatever it may reasonably be worth.—Ib.

INSURANCE AGAINST GOVERNMENT.

101. In 1840 there were accounts to a large amount unsettled between the claimant's testator, James Brodie, and the United States. In that year, the United States commenced a suit against him in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. After a lengthy and elaborate trial, on Dec. 4, 1855, the jury found a verdict against the Government. From a transcript of the record it appeared, the jury "find for the defendant, and specially that the plaintiffs are indebted to the defendant in the sum of $188,296 06." On May 11, 1848, a motion for a new trial was refused, and judgment was rendered on the verdict. On Aug. 1, 1848, the plaintiffs sued out a writ of error, which was subsequently dismissed by the Supreme Court. The claimant states that the verdict so rendered should settle all further controversy as to the facts which were litigated, and should be deemed legal, full and indisputable evidence that the United States owed J. B. the sum of $188,296 06 as the date of the verdict, and claims to recover that amount from the United States, with interest thereon from the date of the verdict to the present. Held: That this is a "debt of record" upon which the United States owe the amount of $188,296 06, with interest at 6 per cent. from Dec. 4, 1851, the date of said verdict.—Per Gilchrist, C. J.—Brodie's Executrix vs. The United States.

102. Held, also: that it is substantially, to all intents and purposes, a judgment by a court of competent jurisdiction, and the defendant therein is entitled to receive the sum of the United States the sum mentioned in the same to be due after a full hearing of the merits of the matters in controversy between the parties.—Ib.

103. Held, also: the balance found due from the United States, by the verdict, has the effect of a debt of record under the act of May 26, 1790, (1 Stat. at Large, 123.)—Ib.

104. Held, also: there is no difference between the effect of a judgment between private persons, of this character, and a similar judgment in a case where the United States are the plaintiffs, except that in the latter, the judgment must be enforced by execution against the United States. It is still a judgment upon the matters in issue, and its payment left not to the execution of process, but to the faith of the United States.—Ib.

105. Held, also: as to the claim of interest upon the amount of the verdict, the Judiciary Act of Sept. 24, 1789, which provides that the laws of the several States shall be regarded as "rules of decision," &c., refers such claim for interest to be determined, in this case, by the law of Pennsylvania.—Ib.

106. When the United States voluntarily submit themselves to the jurisdiction of a court, which is established in its attributions by the laws of a particular State, and those laws provide that a balance found by a verdict of a jury against the plaintiff shall be "a debt of record," held: the court will consider a judgment upon such a verdict as a debt of record which the United States are bound to pay.—Ib.

107. Section 16 of the act of Sept. 24, 1789, commonly called the Judiciary Act, (1 Stat. at Large, 82,) simply has to do with the proceedings after judgment. It means only that the judgment shall be rendered according to the laws of the State. It refers solely to the judgment and the nature of the judgment, and its effect must be determined by the laws of the State where rendered.—Ib.

108. Individuals, when sued by the United States, may avail themselves of credits or set-offs against the United States.—Ib.

109. The United States, to a certain extent, consent-ed that they may be sued, by the Act of March 3, 1797, (1 Stat. at Large, 514,) allowing a defendant in an action by them to file a set-off.—Ib.

110. There is nothing in the Act of March 3, 1797, (1 Stat. at Large, 514,) which prohibits the defendant, in an action against him by the United States, from having allowed to him in such action, by way of offset, a larger sum than the United States are seeking to recover.—Ib.

111. The scire facias is "only a judicial writ, is no new suit, but a mere handmaid in the original cause, and a step towards execution."—Ib.

EVIDENCE.

112. The judgment of a Court of the United States, or of a State Court, where the same matter is in issue, is, it seems, in all other Courts conclusive and binds parties and privies.—Ib.

THE OFFICERS.

113. Which money is paid to the collector for estimated or unascertained duties by the importer, it is, it seems, not in the nature of a pledge or deposit, but of a payment, as it is made on account of a debt due by the importer to the United States at the time of the payment; and though that then ascertained, yet capable of ascertainment from elements then in existence.—Per Scarburgh, J.—Wood vs. The United States.

114. As to the duties paid without protest on the deficiencies upon the liquors warehoused, when redelivered to the claimants, held: the claimants are entitled to relief against the United States to recover the amount so paid by them.—Ib.

115. Held, also: that money paid for duties not imposed by law, with a knowledge of all the facts, but under a mutual mistake of the law—both parties having the law in contemplation, and in good faith meaning to conform to it, but acting under a misconstruction which was ascertained by subsequent judicial construction, may be recovered back from the United States.—Ib.

116. Held, also, the money in this case, paid for duties not imposed by law, under an actual mistake of the law, was paid under a moral duress, and for that reason, also, cannot be regarded as voluntary.—Ib.

CONTRACTS.

117. A gift of what is due on a contract cannot be made to the person who owes it, otherwise than by a release under seal.—Per Scarburgh, J.—Wood vs. The United States.

118. If part of a debt be paid, and the creditor give a receipt expressing that the money is received in full of all demands, still, it seems, the obligation to pay that balance will remain wholly unaffected, unless there be some additional consideration to discharge it.—Ib.

119. Where money is paid to an agent for his principal, under such circumstances as would entitle the person making the payment to recover it back from the principal, if it had been paid directly to him, a suit may be maintained therefor against the agent, if, before he pays the money to his principal, notice is given to the agent that it will be reclaimed from him. Such notice (or protest as in the case of payment of unascertained duties) does not create the right to recover back the money; that results from other circumstances. The notice is necessary only because the agent is not liable in an action by the person who has mispaid the money, if he has paid it over to his principal without such notice.—Ib.

JUDICIAL PRECEDENTS.

120. A judicial tribunal or court, in presenting its views of the case decided, may with propriety draw its arguments from any source of which in its discretion it may approve.—Ib.

121. But no motive of public policy can justify or excuse a court where, as in the United States, the executive, legislative and judiciary departments of government are kept separate and distinct, in attempting, by a decision in one case, to lay down rules to be followed in any other case, not of the same character as the one decided.—Ib.

122. In making a decision in one case, no court can rightfully undertake to do more than merely decide that case. Its decisions, by virtue of the principle which gives value to a judicial precedent, may be followed, and, when it is the court of the last resort, in most instances ought to be followed in other cases.—Ib.

123. Held, also: that money paid for duties not imposed by law, with a knowledge of all the facts, but under a mutual mistake of the law—both parties having the law in contemplation, and in good faith meaning to conform to it, but acting under a misconstruction which was ascertained by subsequent judicial construction, may be recovered back from the United States.—Ib.

124. There is, it seems, a clear and practical distinction between ignorance and mistake of the law, founded in reason and justice, and sustained by eminent authority.—Per Scarburgh, J.—Sturges et. al. vs. The United States.—Second opinion.

125. Where money is paid under an actual mistake of the law, made directly with reference to the law itself, the payment, it seems, is not voluntary, or a gift to the party receiving it.—Ib.

126. Where money is paid with a knowledge of the facts, but in ignorance of the law, it is a gift, it seems, to the person who receives it.—Ib.

127. When the money is paid by one under a mistake of his rights and his duty, and which he was under no legal or moral obligation to pay, and which the recipient has no right, in good conscience, to retain, it may be recovered back, whether such mistake be one of fact or one of law.—Ib.

128. The maxim ignorantia juris non excusat may justly be invoked where crime has been committed, a wrong done, a right withheld, or a duty neglected.—Ib.

129. It is a perversion of both the language and the spirit of the maxim ignorantia juris non excusat to apply it to one who has done no wrong, and withheld no right, and neglected no duty, but is himself the injured party, over whom an advantage in opposition to his legal rights and interests has been acquired.—Ib.

VOLUNTARY PAYMENTS.

130. A payment cannot be a gift unless it be voluntary, and it cannot be voluntary unless it be made in the exercise of a free will.—Ib.

131. "If a man has actually paid what the law would not have compelled him to pay, but what in equity and good conscience he ought, he cannot recover it back."—Ib.

132. Where money is paid on a fair and deliberate compromise of a doubted and doubtful right, both parties standing on equal terms, and respectively taking their chances of the result, it cannot and ought not to be recovered back.—Ib.

PURSER'S ACCOUNTS.

133. The claimant, a purser in the Navy during the last war with Great Britain, had charge of the accounts of the officers and men of the Delaware flotilla of gunboats. He received, in his official capacity, from the Government, between 1812 and 1815, money, in treasury notes, to be used in paying persons employed in the naval service. In 1817 he rendered an account, in which he charged for loss sustained by him on the sale of the Treasury notes, which were then at a discount, and which he was compelled to exchange for smaller money to enable him to pay the men. This charge was disallowed at the Treasury. The claim for its allowance, since frequently renewed, was rejected there from time to time, owing to alleged want of proper proof of the loss, and of legal authority to make such an allowance. In 1839 the claimant stated his accounts, and paid into the Treasury the amount so disallowed him. The information on the hearing, furnished from the Treasury Department upon the call of the Court, included the vouchers, &c., of the claimant on file there. From this, it appeared that he had proved to the satisfaction of the department a loss by the depreciation of $613. He showed, also, by the bills of the brokers, a depreciation of 6 per cent. upon $4,000, amounting to $240; making, in the whole, $853. Objection was made to $82 16 of the $240, by the department, on the ground that upon the vouchers for it the written approval of the commodore, as required by a regulation of the department, was not produced. Its objection was not that the notes, to $4,000, were improperly sold; but that the evidence adduced there did not comply with such regulation. The claimant asks judgment for the amount of his loss by the depreciation of the treasury notes, with interest. Held: the claimant is entitled to judgment against the United States (which the court rendered in his favor) for $853, the amount proved of his loss by depreciation of the notes, but without interest.—Per Gilchrist, C. J.—Todd vs. The United States.

134. Also, held: it was the duty of the claimant, as purser, to pay off the officers and men of the flotilla so far as the funds furnished him by the government would permit. But the Treasury notes were worth less than their nominal value by 6 per cent., and to the extent of 6 per cent., on the amount, the purser may be considered as having paid his own money.—Ib.

135. Also, held: the Treasury notes, to $4,000, having been sold by brokers, their accounts of sales, duly proved, are competent evidence, and the best evidence the nature of the case admits of, to prove the extent of the depreciation.—Ib.

136. Held, also: that before his accounts were stated on Nov. 11, 1839, the facts in this case would have been sufficient to support an action for money paid, and after that date, and after he had paid the money into the Treasury, the facts would support an action for money had and received.—Ib.

137. Also, held: The approval of the commodore upon the vouchers is to be regarded only as required by a rule of convenience at the Treasury, and cannot be considered in a court of law as a rule of evidence.—Ib.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1856, by JOHN C. DEVEREUX, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the Southern District of New-York.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.—IS MRS. ROBINSON THE PERSON WHO WAS MISS CHARLOTTE WOOD?—The following paragraph from the Quebec Gazette, of a recent date, would seem to settle this once vexed question:

THE TRUTH AT LAST.—In 1854, a woman well known here and intimately acquainted with the affairs of a family of great respectability in this city, having poisoned one or more persons in Troy, a woman of good appearance but of a very bad character—a Mrs. ROBINSON, alias widow CAMPBELL—represented herself to be Miss CHARLOTTE WOOD, (now and at that time Mrs. FELTON,) and the woman's story was, by many persons, believed. Well, Mrs. ROBINSON is in Sing Sing, and Mrs. FELTON—Miss CHARLOTTE WOOD—is NOW in Iowa, having arrived in the Anglo Saxon.

The statement of the Comptroller of North Carolina shows the receipts of taxes for the fiscal year just ended to be $363,084 28, being an increase of $70,-306 49 on the taxes received last year.

The first installment, arising out of the sale of Clergy Reserves in Canada has been apportioned, and the town of Dundas will receive this year $1,319 or 20

Barrette & Co.'s Provision Circular.

Per steamer Africa.] NEW-YORK, Oct. 14, 1856.

The Pork market during the past week has presented no new feature, and prices have been for the most part steady at $19 87½@$20 @ barrel for Mess, and $17 75@$17 87½ @ bbl., for Prime, but at the close, under the influence of a speculative movement, the prices of Mess Pork improved, and on the 13th sales were made at an advance of 75c. @ barrel, closing with a good demand very firm.

CUT MEATS—Influenced by large receipts and a very moderate demand, prices have declined and the sales of the week have been mostly at 7¼c.@7¾c. @ lb., for Dry Salted Shoulders, and 8c.@9¼c. for Hams. Bacon is in fair demand, but owing to the difficulty of obtaining desirable lots the transactions have been to a very limited extent. For future delivery some small lots have been sold, and for delivery in November and first part of December the offerings of new short boneless city-packed Middles are at 11¾c.@11¾c. @ lb.

LARD—Under the influence of the late foreign advices prices have declined ¼c. @ lb. The stock of prime Old Lard is very small, probably not exceeding 1,900 bbls., which is firmly held at extreme rates. There have been sales to a considerable extent of New Lard, but the quality in such as to render it suitable only for immediate use. For delivery in the latter part of November and first of December, sales have been made at 12¼c.@12¾c. @ lb. for strictly prime, on the spot.

BEEF—A better inquiry for all descriptions has existed, and the stock during the past month has decreased upwards of 10,000 bbls. Prices, though not materially higher, are much more firm, and tend upwards.

TALLOW—The market rather tends in favor of buyers, and prices may be quoted at ¼c. lower; the demand is very moderate, and stock light; the recent sale of strictly prime at 12¾c. @ lb.

FREIGHTS—To Liverpool, Pork and Beef, @ bbl., 3s. 6d., Bacon, &c., @ ton, 27s. 6d. To London, bbls., 4s.; ton 28s. To Marseilles, Beef and Pork, @ bbl., 6½; Bacon, &c., ¾c.@¾c. @ lb. To Antwerp, bbls., 4s. 6d.; Bacon ¾c. @ lb. To Havre, bbls. 2½; Bacon ¾c. @ lb.

PATENTS FOR INVENTIONS.
No. 8 WALL-ST.

The undersigned respectfully offers his services to all the various matters pertaining to procuring and defending LETTERS PATENT for INVENTIONS. An extensive practice of seven years, embracing every country of Europe and America, has materially contributed to his knowledge of the various laws in force in the United States and of England, and the various forms in which applications must be made to secure the best results. Models must be accompanied with a full description of the invention, and with a statement of the facts as to when, where and by whom it was first made, known, used or described, and when, where and by whom it was first patented, if patented at all. Drawings must be executed in the most accurate manner, and the model must be neatly finished. Assignments must be executed in duplicate, and recorded in the Patent Office. Caveats must be filed, and applications prepared and prosecuted with the utmost care and fidelity. Reissues must be applied for within a reasonable time after the discovery of the defective or insufficient specification. Rejected cases must be prosecuted with energy and perseverance. Appeals must be taken from the decisions of the Examiners in due time. Interferences must be managed with skill and circumspection. Extensions must be applied for at the proper time, and the testimony in support of them must be taken with the greatest care. Infringements must be sued with promptness, and the testimony in support of them must be taken with the greatest care. Opinions as to the validity of patents, and as to infringements, must be given with caution and deliberation. Assignments, licenses and agreements must be prepared with the greatest care and exactness. In fact, every step in the whole complicated business of procuring and defending patents must be performed with the greatest care, skill and fidelity, or the whole labor and expense may be lost. Personal attendance at the Patent Office is indispensable to the best success in procuring patents. Inventors who reside at a distance may rely upon the most prompt and faithful attention to their business by addressing their communications to the undersigned, as above, or by calling at his office. Terms moderate, and no charge made unless a patent is secured. Advice in regard to the patentability of inventions, and all other matters connected with the business, cheerfully given without charge. Communications in German, French or Spanish.

$500 REWARD.—JEFFRIE'S ANTIDOTE, A specific mixture for the cure of gonorrhœa, gleet, stricture and similar disorders. It makes a speedy cure without the least restriction of diet, drink, exposure, or change in application to business. Our object is to notify where it can be had; and the proprietor challenges a single case of gonorrhœa, or stricture which the mixture will not cure, under a forfeiture of $500. Repeated experiments and long experience have proved that it will radically cure any case which can be produced. This desirable result is obtained in from two to ten days, and as it neither creates nausea nor offends the palate, and renders unnecessary any deviation in diet or interruption to usual pursuits, sound sleep or healthy digestion, the remedy is the most desirable as it is the safest to attend the production of a thorough and permanent cure. In its operations are entirely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by its use. Price $1 per bottle. Sole agent for this City, C. H. RING, No. 122 Broadway, corner of John-st.

T. E. CALLENDER, corner 2d and Walnut-sts., agent for Philadelphia. REDDING & CO., No. 5 State-st., Boston. W. L. JENISON, Albany.
